Six New Color Options by Vadara Quartz Surfaces

Vadara is a premium quartz surfacing material used in both residential and commercial settings. Quartz is one of the hardest minerals on earth, contributing to Vadara's unmatched strength and durability. Directional veining in the product creates a realistic look that is practically identical to natural stone. These surfaces are nonporous, offering antibacterial benefits not available with other stone products. They are virtually maintenance-free and backed by a lifetime limited warranty.

Vadara has an unyielding commitment to producing a high-quality product from start to finish, keeping in mind the goal of merging beauty, functionality, and value for consumers. Each handcrafted Vadara Quartz product is developed by a team of designers, artisans, fabricators, and engineers.

A musing of the natural shades found in quartzite and marble, Vadara introduces six new fashion-forward color options to its existing lineup of products.
